Just in time for summer campers, HLB employees give back by shutting down their offices and sprucing up a beloved DFW kid's camp

To kick off summer, Hartman Leito & Bolt, LLP (HLB), an accounting firm with offices in Dallas and Fort Worth, volunteered time to make some significant renovations to The Fort Worth YMCA's Camp Carter. The HLB offices completely shut down and more than 70 employees sanded, primed, painted and renovated various buildings and amenities on the camp's grounds in early June.

Camp Carter was handpicked as HLB's charity for its 25th anniversary service project due to the alignment of HLB's mission with YMCA's mission, its impact on the local community and the opportunity to give back to the area that has served as HLB's foundation of growth as a company. Also, a number of HLB's employees and their families have been campers at this favorite DFW camp over the last two decades.

HLB hopes to motivate and encourage others to find service projects and give back to their own local communities through their Camp Carter service project.
